Professional History

Robert is a Certified Practising Planner with over 14 years' experience in urban planning and governance administration, including approximately 6 years of management experience in local government.

Prior to joining the Ekistics team, Robert worked for the City of Tea Tree Gully and managed a team of 17 staff responsible for the delivery of planning, building and compliance related services to the local community. During this time, Robert advised developers, the community and Council on a broad range of development applications ranging from large scale commercial, industrial and retail developments to residential greenfield and infill development.

In addition to Robert's experience in development assessment, Robert has an intricate knowledge of the planning appeals process, having provided expert planning advice to assist the Environment, Resources and Development Court with its deliberations on planning appeals.

Robert's technical skills in urban planning and management are also complemented by his experience in governance. Reporting directly to the Chief Executive Officer, Robert acted as a senior advisor to Tea Tree Gully Council on matters relating to local government administration. This experience has equipped Robert with intricate knowledge of local government operations, including the political factors which often influence decision making.

With a strong background in urban planning, managerial skills and extensive local government experience, Robert is ideally placed to facilitate high quality development outcomes for clients.
