Professional History

Ryan is a highly motivated planner with over 11 years' experience traversing a broad range of statutory and strategic projects within the private sector, local and state governments.

Ryan's background in architecture and urban design means that he brings a design sensitivity and practicality to the process. His clarity of expression, technical skill and the conviction of his delivery means that he is a strong performer at Council meetings and various panels.

Prior to joining the Ekistics team, Ryan worked in local and state government planning roles within South Australia, before moving to Victoria as a senior consultant within the private sector. With a focus on development facilitation and strategic planning across metropolitan and regional settings, Ryan has advised developers, Councils and government authorities on a range of statutory and strategic projects in commercial, residential, infrastructure, retail, industrial and mixed-use settings.

Ryan has led the delivery of a range of projects both in size and complexity. This includes modest commercial and residential development applications through to large-scale greenfield developments (up to 5,000 allotments), major retail activity centres, infill developments, and structure planning within growth area and regional townships.

Ryan understands that the key to great service is responsiveness – ensuring that issues are addressed quickly, and projects keep moving. Ryan is personable and tenacious in equal measure, making him a very effective development facilitator. Placing great value on strong client relationships, Ryan takes pride in working to move from simply a planning consultant, to becoming your trusted planning advisor.
